Texas A & M University (TAMU) Physician and Infectious Disease Specialist Endorses One Health – (USA)

Provided to One Health Initiative website December 26, 2014:

“We are committed to the One Health view at Texas A&M University where I, along with another physician, work in collaboration with a veterinarian to promote One Health solutions from problems ranging from Staphylococcal aureus infections in humans and companion animals to developing solutions for the growing threat of antimicrobial resistance. Please see my recent interview [entitled “Collaboration: A One Health Approach to Ebola”]
